Claims 1-23 are allowed.

Examiner's Reasons for Allowance

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Updated searches were performed.

The closest US prior art, Goodwin, does not disclose, inter alia, as in amended claim 1,

- ...in an online four-tier offering and bidding process in which an "offeror" notifies one or more traders of available products or services, quantities, and minimum acceptable bid values, followed by each trader communicating offerings to resell said available products or services to one or more brokers associated with each trader, followed by said brokers responding with bids to purchase said resold products or services through said trader, providing a reseller master agreement in a computer-readable record for each broker entitling a subset of said products and services on which each broker may bid, said subset being authorized for further resale by each broker to one or more end users;
- further providing a profile for a guest in a computer-readable record in said offering and bidding process, said profile containing one or more entitlement definitions indicating allowable items which a guest user may receive information but for which is "read-only" and is to be restricted from placing bids, said entitlement definitions being controlled by said reseller master agreement a previously-established reseller contract between an offeror and a guest auction participant in a manner which prevents a guest auction participant from modifying the entitlement schema;
- preparing one or more entitled offerings through filtering an available items list according to said profiles such that said prepared entitled offerings include only offerings for one or more items to which a guest is allowed offers as defined by the guest's entitlement and
- presenting via a computer user interface said entitled offerings to one or more guests such that each guest may review his or her entitled offerings.

Applicant's arguments are commensurate with the disclosures:

... invention as integral to a four-tier auction arrangement between an offeror, traders, brokers, and end-users...

Art Unit: 3625

... combines the steps and limitations of a four-tier, business-to-business arrangement with certain improvements to the reseller master agreement and a guest profile to allow guest participation in the process. This is a useful tool to promote the process to new brokers, in order to allow them to see how the process works and to see the benefits of it. In turn, brokers who are impressed, will agree to a fully-entitled reseller master agreement to begin bidding on computer equipment being offered by the manufacturer.

The closest non-patent literature prior art is Unisys Announces Its Strategic Service Partnership Program, Giving Computer Industry OEMs Access to Its Entire Portfolio of Distributed Computing Support Services, Business Editors. Business Wire. New York: May 4, 1998. pg. 1, downloaded from ProQuest on the Internet on 26 March 2008. However, Unisys does not provide disclose, inter alia,

- ...in an online four-tier offering and bidding process in which an "offeror" notifies one or more traders of available products or services, quantities, and minimum acceptable bid values, followed by each trader communicating offerings to resell said available products or services to one or more brokers associated with each trader, followed by said brokers responding with bids to purchase said resold products or services through said trader, providing a reseller master agreement in a computer-readable record for each broker entitling a subset of said products and services on which each broker may bid, said subset being authorized for further resale by each broker to one or more end users;

None of the prior art of record remedies the deficiencies found in Goodwin. Furthermore, neither the prior art, the nature of the problem, nor knowledge of a person having ordinary skill in the art, provide any reasonable rationale to combine prior art teachings.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
